ran - Definições

Total Beta = Market Beta / Correlation between stock and market

This measure is equivalent to dividing the standard deviation of a stock by the standard deviation of the market. For an undiversified investor, it may be a better measure of risk than the traditional market beta. It is useful for computing the cost of equity for a private business with an undiversified owner.

This is the beta for the sector, unlevered by the market value debt to equity ratio for the sector:

Unlevered Beta = Beta / (1 + (1- tax rate) (Debt/Equity Ratio))

See description of debt/equity ratio for more detail.

The unlevered beta that you compute for a firm reflects both its operating assets and the cash holdings of the firm. Since the latter should have a beta close to zero, we estimate the beta of just the operating assets by using two numbers – the unlevered beta and the cash as a percent of overall firm value (in market terms)

Unlevered Beta adjusted for cash = Unlevered Beta/ (1 - Cash/ Firm Value)

Thus if the unlevered beta for the entire firm is 1.20 and the firm has a cash balance of 20%, the unlevered beta adjusted for cash is 1.5 = 1.2/(1 - .20)
